The diagram illustrates a template for a self-evaluation report. It features a header row labeled "Assessment area" and four rows below it labeled "Assessment criteria". A thick red vertical arrow points downwards from each of the four "Assessment criteria" labels towards the bottom of the grid, indicating where specific evaluation details should be filled in.

Alternative courses of action?

1. Focus

What do you really want to know?

2. Why?

What is the goal of the review?

3. How?

Is the reviewing done
equally valuable?
